

Q2:

Q3:

Q6:

No, it does not look accurate at all. Because we only run one iteration, so the Jacobian matrix did not generate properly for making the end effector getting closer to the goal position.

After changing the vertical displacement to -0.001 and run 500 iterations, the can was perfectly lifted to the correct position.

